In these days of remote work and social distance, human connection has become vitally important.

This is especially true for our workplace teams as they strive to maintain collective engagement and productivity in pursuit of common purpose. Now, more than ever, we as leaders must create opportunities and implement strategies for keeping our teams connected. This virtual teaming session offers tips and techniques for maintaining connection, fostering interactive engagement, and supporting enhanced collaboration within our teams across the landscape of today's distanced workplaces.

In this session, we will . . .

- Acknowledge the importance of connection, now more than ever, for dispersed workplace teams.
- Explore approaches, tips, and techniques for sustaining a sense of cohesion and connectedness within dispersed teams.
- Discover strategies for leveraging technology in support of team collaboration and engagement.
- Commit to action on applying insights, learnings, and strategies gained through participation in this session.
